Supporting documentation to be submitted with the form:

The level of documentation required varies depending on the complexity and nature of the project. In all cases the documentation should be submitted electronically.

New Construction or a Major Project request:

Note: If you are not sure whether your request should be considered a Major Project, then contact an ACC representative to discuss and assist with making that determination.

The HOA utilizes an expert Review Consultant for these more complex projects. Before submitting your request and the supporting documentation, please contact an ACC member (Listed on Committees page of the HOA web site). They will coordinate getting you connected with the Review Consultant, who will assist in addressing any questions you may have and provide guidance to ensure your submittal package will be complete.

For New Construction this form must be accompanied by a complete set of plans and specifications, including the following:

Form Instructions

Fees:

Owners who are planning a New Construction or a Major Project are required to submit a Review Fee Deposit at the time that the request package is submitted.

The HOA utilizes an expert Review Consultant for these more complex projects. New construction requires a $7,000 Review Fee Deposit. Major projects of a less complex nature, will require a lower Review Fee Deposit, as determined by the ACC.

The Review Fee Deposit is utilized to cover HOA costs for the Review Consultant, who will facilitate the review/approval and construction monitoring processes on behalf of the HOA. If for some reason the actual fees exceed this amount, then the ACC will request additional funds. Any unused portion of the deposit will be returned to you upon project completion. Costs incurred during the review process must be paid for by the Owner and are not refundable under any circumstances. The actual costs can vary significantly by project and can be minimized by a number of factors including good planning and thorough submittal packages, avoiding controversial designs that are inconsistent with the architecture standards of the neighborhood, and limiting the extent of change requests during the project.

Note that the Review Fee Deposit is separate from the Construction Deposit that is required after the project is approved and before construction can begin. The Construction Deposit will be refunded upon completion of all construction and a determination of compliance by the ACC with respect to all requirements of the PC&Rs.

The Review Fee Deposit, payable to Sundance Estates HOA, needs to be submitted and received before the ACC can begin review activities. A check can be mailed to Sundance Estates ACC, P. O. Box 31083, Santa Fe, NM 87594. Do NOT send with recipient signature required. Please let the ACC know when the check has been mailed. They will inform the Treasurer, who will need to pick up the check from the PO Box.

Request Package Submittal:

Please submit this form and all supporting documentation to the ACC via email to the ACC at SundanceEstatesHOAACCC@gmail.com

Review and Approval Determination Process:

The ACC (and the Review Consultant for more complex projects) will review the request package and contact you if there are any questions/concerns or if any revisions are needed. You will be notified by the ACC once an approval decision has been made.

Approval timelines will vary significantly depending on the complexity of a project. If requested, the ACC will provide an estimate within 10 days of request submittal.

IMPORTANT: Work cannot begin until the Owner receives ACC formal written notification of approval to proceed.
